PEARL HARBOR ANNIVERSARY

By Joseph Auslander
This is the day when infamy. Every eye here today. Every soul that breathes. With his best, for we shall rise. His hundred for our one. Let there be no compromise. With this thing of sin and evil. But with clear courageous eyes. Let our crusade till he lies. Prostrate in his blood. For our dead no pity ask. Beg no more, no more ask. Only that we mark the grave. Of their ever-wondering grave. With the finished call. We have seen them to make. For our only and our trust. That we have come to know the snake. We shall beat him down and break. His fangs in the dust. While, on this black day of sins. Sugared words drip from his lips. Even while the honey phrase. Wins his ambush new delays. His bombs blast our ships. We have seen them to make. For our only and our trust. That we have come to know the snake. We shall beat him down and break. His fangs in the dust.

Intolerable Depression

Dominion President Alex Walker of the Canadian Legion speaks for not less than 90 per cent of the people of Canada when he declares in Edmonton that Canadians will not tolerate another period of depression.

Canadians will not tolerate another depression because they have learned that depressions are not necessary, that they can be prevented, and that sometimes they are deliberately brought about.

Depressions may be caused in one of two ways:

1. By making money take precedence over production; that is, by regarding a supply of bankers' money as the first requisite of production instead of an adequate national income.

2. By the banks calling in loans, that have been to most of the country's enterprises, and thereby exhausting the currency circulation of the country.

Both these causes of depression can be removed by making the creation of money and credit the responsibility of the Dominion Government. Once Canadians realize that, they need no longer fear depression.

Albertans Did Well

One out of each five persons in Alberta bought a Fifth Victory Loan bond. One out of each six in the rest of the province. The increase in the number of purchasers was 25,057, a gain of about 16 per cent.

The total of personal purchases of Fifth Loan bonds was $42,149,050. The figures for the Fourth Loan were $39,054,200. The increase in personal subscriptions was $3,095,450, nearly eight per cent.

In these two loan flotations, set approximately six months apart, Albertans as individuals—aside altogether from purchases made by the Government—did very well: to protect themselves and their families against what the Government might do; to provide them with working capital for building homes or starting business enterprises should the money not be returned.

From either standpoint this showing is highly creditable. It demonstrates that Albertans are not only patriotic but also the people of the other provinces in providing the "tools" to finish the job in hand. And it shows that they are fully alive to the wisdom of putting up a substantial part of their present earnings to safeguard their own future and to carry through private plans for post-war betterment of their circumstances.

Easy to Talk

The National War Labor Board condescends to rap the O'Connor Royal Commission over the knuckles for awarding an increase of $1 a day to striking coal miners of Alberta and British Columbia.

The board has followed the precedent set by Mr. Justice O'Connor's commission and granted a wage increase of $1 a day and holidays with pay to the 10,000 Alberta and British Columbia coal miners. But the concession apparently hurts, and it is accompanied by what the press dispatches term "sharp criticism" of the workers' organization.

The western award, says the National War Labor Board, "once again demonstrated that outlaw methods, properly timed, make quick impressions."

The suggestion that Mr. Justice O'Connor and his fellow commissioners were intimidated by the striking miners or failed to take full cognizance of the national labor situation is as infamously as it is false. One can hardly imagine a reputable national board indulging in such reprehensible slurs.

Possibly the members of the National War Labor Board do not stand in danger of a 40 below zero winter. Possibly the leaders of a coal strike in the west are not so much concerned with transportation and industrial collapse. Or possibly they would have been quite willing to see folk in Edmonton freeze to death the first time the miners of Nova Scotia could be properly slapped down.

The point was that this area needed coal. It had to have coal at any price.

And irrespective of the rights or wrongs of the dispute, irrespective of the legality or illegality of the actions engaged in by the miners, the majority of the people in this part of the country think the O'Connor commission secured that essential coal for the winter. They are glad of that district with remarkably little delay. They think the O'Connor commission made a good deal on behalf of the people.

An Unbroken Front

As expected, the official statement of the proceedings of the National War Labor Board, if any more, informing that the statement from Cairo, on the matters that everyone would like to know about—Hitler in particular—Objective was indicated, but details left out. At the one place as at the other, while the political chiefs discussed questions of policy, the military men talked of tactics to carry these policies to success. What they decided will be disclosed when and as disclosed.

closure can do no harm, or may help to discourage or delude the enemy.

These plans have been set to a timetable, and are scheduled to be mutually complementary. The first step is to push Germany from three sides, while bombing operations are to continue full blast and our submarines may be prosecuted with the utmost energy. Beyond this both the enemy and the Allied powers will have to wait and see. Where and when the intensified attacks are to occur is one of the questions about which Berlin is left to exercise its imagination in the intervals between bomb raids—supposing that to be still the place where the Nazi headquarters are located.

If there was any lingering hope that that quarter that the campaign to split Russia from its western allies would succeed, it may as well be dismissed. This reaffirmation of solidarity is the most important fact disclosed by the official statement in regard to the conduct of the war. The very positive language will be duly noted by the Fuehrer and his accomplices.

The statement is equally provocative as to the intention of the governments of the three countries to stand together when the fighting has ended and to sponsor the establishment of a "family of democratic nations." Of this organization the United Nations will be the charter members, but any and all other nations dedicating themselves to the preservation of peace.

Next to the pledge of unity in winning the war, this pledge of solidarity in establishing and maintaining peace and freedom for all peoples thereafter is the most important agreement to which the conference could have set their hands.

These two clear decisions mark the conference as an unqualified success. Not in history have three men held the fate of humankind in their hands. The agreements to which they bound themselves show that they brushed minor matters aside and talked together in the light of this tremendous responsibility.

Imperialism Is Prohibited for Japanese People

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

To Be Stripped of All Territory Acquired by Force

In the first series of resolutions to come out of the conference which have taken place between Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill, and Mr. Stimson, the United States, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union, the term "unconditional surrender" is beginning to be defined. From now on, Japan knows what she chooses to end the war without waiting in for her cities being left to remain a sovereign and independent state. She will retain her own territory, but for the first time "Japan" as she will exist in the future will be defined. The Japan that will remain is the Japan that existed in 1914. If Russia had not been a Japanese-ruled Manchuria, she would hardly make them on a Manchurian empire.

The first step of Japanese imperialism was her war with China in 1914 and 1915. At that time Japan having, the League of Nations, a Japanese-ruled Manchuria, she would hardly make them on a Manchurian empire.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Roosevelt Wants Greater Recognition of Small Powers

WASHINGTON.—One result of the recent conferences may be a greater participation of small nations in the United Nations' council. Roosevelt is known to advocate this. Also, he would like to shift the council meetings from London to Washington.

Sees Long War in the Pacific

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

Japan Is Not Likely to Accept Such Drastic Terms

WASHINGTON.—The Cairo terms of the Allies make it likely that we are in for a long war in the Pacific. Japan will fight until it is rather than to accept those terms. They mean her disappearance as a world power.

The effect of these allegations, says Sir Geoffrey, was to strengthen the determination of the Allies to fight until it is rather than to accept those terms. They mean her disappearance as a world power.

Canadian Legion Delegation Urges Aid for Veterans

Establishment of Homes, Farm Acreage Settlement Among Points Emphasized

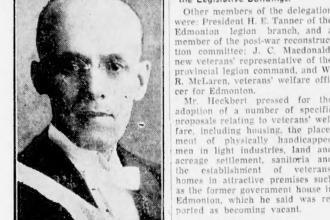

Described by committee members as the "most practical brief" yet received, submissions were made by Canadian Legion officials Monday to the Alberta government committee on post-war reconstruction.

S. Carl Heckbert, president of the provincial committee of the legion, headed the delegation that conferred with the committee in the Legislative Building.

Other members of the delegation were: President H. E. Tanner of the Edmonton legion branch, and a member of the post-war reconstruction committee, J. C. Macdonald, new veterans' representative of the provincial legion command, and Mr. McKinnon, veteran's welfare officer for Edmonton.

Mr. Heckbert pressed for the adoption of a number of specific proposals relating to veterans' welfare, including housing, the placement of physically handicapped men in light industries, land and acreage settlement, assistance and the establishment of veterans' homes in attractive places such as the former government house in Edmonton, which he said was reported as becoming vacant.

Independents Unable Appoint Committee Man

The Edmonton political party has informed Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of crown lands and mines, and chairman of the Alberta government committee on post-war reconstruction, that it is unable to appoint a successor to the late Mr. Speakman, as the latter's work was considered of great importance.

The party official replied, however, that they have no man who can spare the time, which at present is virtually a full-time job.

The party official stated Tuesday that the government had invited the independents to nominate a successor to Mr. Speakman, as the latter's work was considered of great importance.

Salvage Rubber Drive Will Be Stopped Jan. 15

Because of an enormous response to the drive, the campaign to collect salvage rubber in Canada will be discontinued after Jan. 15, according to E. C. Fisher, regional organizer of the national salvage campaign, in announcing the arrangements for tires, tubes and other forms of rubber.

The drive was organized by the national salvage committee to raise funds for the war effort, and was expected to collect salvage so that they will have none of it left by Jan. 15.

Committees in rural areas are especially wanted to ship their tires.

The Inquiring Reporter

Railroad workers are in given a vote's vacation among pay. What do you think of this decision?

THE ANSWERS
 GEORGE BROWNE, railroad worker, says he is coming to the hourly employees, at least. Hourly employees lose a great deal of time during the year, especially if they are laid off, because of weather conditions. Their earnings are low, and they don't work and I think that a holiday with pay is justifiable. It's a good move, I would say.

R. B. another railroad worker: I don't believe it is a wise move. Men paid by the hour get paid for the day for overtime and all holidays. They would lose a regular salary to work every day, holidays included. The hourly-paid man is today farther ahead than the salaried man.

MRS. ALLEN, civic employee: I think it's quite all right for the men to get a holiday with pay. Railroad, municipal, school and other employees are able to pay their employees which on holidays.

Separate School Teachers Convene

Due to the late opening of school this year, Edmonton school teachers have dispersed with the regular two-day convention. Instead, the Edmonton Separate School teachers held a Monday afternoon conference at St. Mary's, held on November 29, departing from the idea of separate schools, which they would attend "open-house" discussions on subjects which they were especially interested in. The topics were dealt with in a workshop manner with the groups divided into committees which are to report at a later meeting on subjects which they have shown a special interest in. The present convention was under the general chairmanship of Miss B. Nadeau, Joe Jacobson and Stan Mohr. Al. Sider, Parsons, president of the Trades Council, stated that the fund was one that brought cheer to great many veterans and their wives and of this war, who otherwise might not be remembered during the festive Christmas season. He appealed to all union members to support the fund.

Salvage Rubber Drive Will Be Stopped Jan. 15

Because of an enormous response to the drive, the campaign to collect salvage rubber in Canada will be discontinued after Jan. 15, according to E. C. Fisher, regional organizer of the national salvage campaign, in announcing the arrangements for tires, tubes and other forms of rubber.

The drive was organized by the national salvage committee to raise funds for the war effort, and was expected to collect salvage so that they will have none of it left by Jan. 15.

Committees in rural areas are especially wanted to ship their tires.

Railroad workers are in given a vote's vacation among pay. What do you think of this decision?

THE ANSWERS
 GEORGE BROWNE, railroad worker, says he is coming to the hourly employees, at least. Hourly employees lose a great deal of time during the year, especially if they are laid off, because of weather conditions. Their earnings are low, and they don't work and I think that a holiday with pay is justifiable. It's a good move, I would say.

R. B. another railroad worker: I don't believe it is a wise move. Men paid by the hour get paid for the day for overtime and all holidays. They would lose a regular salary to work every day, holidays included. The hourly-paid man is today farther ahead than the salaried man.

MRS. ALLEN, civic employee: I think it's quite all right for the men to get a holiday with pay. Railroad, municipal, school and other employees are able to pay their employees which on holidays.

Separate School Teachers Convene

Due to the late opening of school this year, Edmonton school teachers have dispersed with the regular two-day convention. Instead, the Edmonton Separate School teachers held a Monday afternoon conference at St. Mary's, held on November 29, departing from the idea of separate schools, which they would attend "open-house" discussions on subjects which they were especially interested in. The topics were dealt with in a workshop manner with the groups divided into committees which are to report at a later meeting on subjects which they have shown a special interest in. The present convention was under the general chairmanship of Miss B. Nadeau, Joe Jacobson and Stan Mohr. Some of the topics which were discussed were: Remedial reading, art in the elementary school, social studies in the intermediate school, physical education and child guidance.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER
All parents, as a matter of course, compare their children with others. First they ask, "What is your child like?" Then, "How is she doing now?"

What I should like to know is, "What is your child like?" Then, "How is she doing now?"

What I should like to know is, "What is your child like?" Then, "How is she doing now?"

What I should like to know is, "What is your child like?" Then, "How is she doing now?"

What I should like to know is, "What is your child like?" Then, "How is she doing now?"

Dorothy Dix Says—50-50 Wedlock Sure To Encourage Divorce

Wise Girl Does Not Argue With Husband, and Steers Clear of Matters About Which They Differ; This Is Wise Policy

That is a fine, brave declaration of independence. It is the soundest policy. It is the only policy that is not just as many rights in marriage as husbands have. The only trouble is that they can't collect them. And the bride who starts out to enforce the fifty-fifty marriage proposition had just as well have a divorce granted to her marriage license.

SEXES MAKE AFFIDAVITS
This is not to imply that there are two good and two bad loving husbands that are wives. There are. Just as many men as women sacrifice themselves on the domestic altar. Just as many husbands as wives try to do their duty to their mates. It is only that in handling the most difficult and complicated and chancey of all human relationships wives have to do it. They are the ones who are husbands. If they keep marriage a going concern.
